DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. Claim 3 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

The scope of claim 3 is not clear because applicant is defining the insole with respect to a baby's foot which the size of the foot is not known.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 1-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over GB 2244907 (Webber) in view of JP 2001-157601 (Suzuki et al) and US 5063692 (Suginaka).

Webber teaches a insole set for baby shoes comprising a plurality of different insoles including a third insole (see page 8, lines 31-32) substantially as claimed except for a first insole (insole with partition wall) and a second insole (insole with T-shaped projection). Suzuki teaches a first insole (insole) for a baby comprising a partition wall (18) as claimed. Suginaka teaches a second insole (insole pad) having an inverted T-shaped projection (15) as claimed. It would have been obvious to provide the insole set of Webber with other sets of insole such as a first insole as taught by Suzuki and a second insole as taught by Suginaka, to treat different foot ailments. Regarding the fourth insole and the fifth insole, Suginaka also teaches providing the insole with an arch region (16) to provide arch support. It would have been obvious to provide the insoles as taught above with an arch projection, as taught by Suginaka, to provide arch support. Therefore, it would have been obvious to provide the insole set as taught above with a different combination of insoles especially inasmuch as Webber teaches a plurality of different insole and states that "other types of insole may be used"; see page 8, lines 33-34.

Regarding the functional language in claim 5, the insoles as taught above have all of the structure as claimed and can inherently be used as claimed.

Conclusion

4. Applicant is duly reminded that a complete response must satisfy the requirements of 37 C.F. R. 1.111, including:

-“The reply must present arguments pointing out the specific distinctions believed to render the claims, including any newly presented claims, patentable over any applied references.”

–“A general allegation that the claims define a patentable invention without specifically pointing out how the language of the claims patentably distinguishes them from the references does not comply with the requirements of this section.”

-Moreover, “The prompt development of a clear issue requires that the replies of the applicant meet the objections to and rejections of the claims. Applicant should also specifically point out the support for any amendments made to the disclosure. See MPEP 2163.06” MPEP 714.02. The “disclosure” includes the claims, the specification and the drawings.
